

Cable tray pad price

Article Overview

Cable tray pads typically range from $5 to $20 per pad, depending on material, size, and brand.

Overview of Cable Tray Pads

Cable tray pads, also known as isolator pads or friction-reducing pads, are used with cable trays and ladders to:

- Reduce friction between cables and metal trays
- Act as a barrier between dissimilar metals to prevent corrosion
- Provide vibration damping and protect cable insulation

They are commonly made from nylon, rubber, or other durable polymers and are compatible with various cable tray systems, including ladder and wire mesh trays .

Price Factors

The cost of a cable tray pad depends on several factors:

- Material: Nylon pads are generally less expensive than specialized rubber or high-performance polymer pads.
- Size and thickness: Larger or thicker pads designed for heavy-duty trays cost more.
- Brand and certification: Premium brands like Eaton B-Line or RS PRO may charge higher prices due to quality and compliance with standards.
- Quantity: Bulk purchases often reduce the per-unit cost....
