

Canada Control Box Distribution Box

Article Overview

Control boxes and distribution boxes in Canada are available from specialized suppliers like Raker Control Boxes and Progressive Automations, as well as general retailers such as Amazon.ca.

Canadian Suppliers

Raker Control Boxes is a family-owned Canadian business serving Ontario, Quebec, and all of Canada. They manufacture custom electrical control boxes for restaurants, hospitals, and various industries. Their products can be mounted on the floor, ceiling, wall, or equipment, and are built to client specifications using licensed electricians. They also supply Hubbell components for existing equipment and offer one-of-a-kind custom solutions . Progressive Automations offers actuator control boxes designed for linear actuators, with options for single or multiple channels, wired or wireless RF control, and Bluetooth/mobile app integration. Their control boxes are assembled in Canada using high-quality global components and include safety features like overcurrent protection and anti-collision sensors. They also provide custom-built actuator controllers for B2B or manufacturing applications .

General Retail Options

For more standard or off-the-shelf solutions, Amazon.ca lists a variety of control boxes and distribution boxes. These products often include features such as sustainable materials, safer chemicals, and certifications for human and environmental safety. Stock availability varies, so checking individual product pages is recommended
