

Custom Price of High-Voltage Power Distribution Cabinets in the UK

Article Overview

The cost of high-voltage power distribution cabinets in the UK varies widely depending on voltage rating, customization, materials, and compliance standards, typically requiring direct supplier quotes.

Pricing Overview

High-voltage power distribution cabinets, including medium-voltage (MV) switchgear up to 36kV, are custom-engineered solutions, so prices are influenced by multiple factors:

- Voltage and current rating: Cabinets for 11kV, 33kV, or 36kV systems require different insulation, busbar sizing, and safety features, affecting cost .
- Customization level: Fully bespoke cabinets with integrated monitoring, climate control, or corrosion-resistant materials (e.g., stainless steel with C5M offshore protection) are more expensive than standard enclosures .
- Environmental protection: Outdoor cabinets with IP66 or IP55 ingress protection, UV-stabilized coatings, and ATEX/IECEx compliance increase manufacturing costs .
- Components and integration: Inclusion of circuit breakers, RMUs, ACBs, or hot-swappable rectifiers from brands like Schneider, ABB, or Eaton adds to the price .
- Size and modularity: Larger walk-in or multi-door cabinets, or modular systems designed for future expansion, are more costly .
