

Household electrical distribution box labor cost

Overview

Typical residential electricians charge $60-$120 per hour, with journeyman rates commonly around $85-$100 per hour in many metros. For a basic install at 2-4 hours, labor might run $170-$420. More complex tasks—such as multi-box installations or new subpanels—can push labor to. Homeowners typically pay a broad range for electrical box installation, driven by box type, wiring complexity, and local labor rates. Cost and price details focus on realistic estimates. Understanding distribution box cost involves examining the comprehensive investment required for electrical distribution systems that serve as crucial infrastructure components in residential, commercial, and industrial settings. The price drivers include box size, material, finish, and labor time.
