

How much does it cost to lay optical fiber cables

Article Overview

Fiber optic cable costs vary widely, ranging from $0.09 to $6 per foot for materials, with total installation costs reaching $15,000–$30,000 for typical commercial projects.

Material Costs

The price of fiber optic cables depends on fiber type, strand count, and cable construction. Simple 1-core FTTH drop cables cost around $0.13 per foot, while high-capacity 288-strand backbone cables can reach $6 per foot at retail . Wholesale bulk purchases may range from $0.09 to $1.52 per foot. Single-mode fiber is generally cheaper per foot than multimode fiber, but it requires more expensive equipment . Specialty cables, such as armored or pre-terminated assemblies, incur higher costs due to added protection or factory termination .

Installation Costs

Installation method significantly affects total cost. Indoor runs are less expensive, while underground or direct-buried installations are more costly due to trenching, conduit, and labor requirements. Typical commercial building installations with 100–200 network drops range from $15,000 to $30,000, while per-mile costs for underground projects can be $5,000–$20,000, and aerial installations may cost $40,000–$60,000 per mile . Labor, splicing, termination, and permits also contribute to overall expenses
