

Price of PVC Cable Tray

Article Overview

PVC cable trays are generally more affordable than metal trays, with prices typically ranging from $2 to $15 per meter depending on size, type, and supplier.

Price Range and Factors

PVC cable trays offer lower initial costs compared to galvanized steel or stainless steel trays due to the cheaper raw material and absence of protective coatings like galvanizing or painting . Typical prices for PVC trays can range from $2 to $15 per meter, depending on the configuration (ladder, trough, slotted, or solid-bottom), load capacity, and supplier . Bulk orders or factory-direct purchases often reduce the per-meter cost further .

Installation and Maintenance Savings

PVC trays are lightweight and non-conductive, which reduces installation labor and eliminates the need for grounding or bonding systems . This simplifies compliance with electrical codes and enhances worker safety. Over time, PVC trays require minimal maintenance, as they are resistant to corrosion and do not need repainting or protective treatments, contributing to long-term operational savings .

Applications and Benefits

PVC cable trays are ideal for environments where electrical insulation and signal integrity are critical, such as data centers, telecommunications networks, laboratories, and medical facilities . Their non-conductive nature prevents short circ...
