

Price of installing a double-door electrical distribution box

Article Overview

Installing a double-door electrical distribution box typically costs between $250 and $800, depending on the box type, material, and labor complexity.

Cost of the Distribution Box

The price of a double-door distribution box varies based on material, protection rating, and size. Standard boxes with IP65 or IP66 protection made from stainless steel or durable polycarbonate typically range from $100 to $400 per unit, with higher-end models offering advanced features like smart monitoring or weather resistance . Outdoor-rated or customized boxes may cost more due to enhanced durability and compliance with safety standards .

Installation Costs

Labor costs for installing a distribution box depend on complexity, location, and electrician rates. For a standard residential or commercial installation, expect 1–3 hours of labor at rates of $75–$125 per hour, resulting in $150–$375 for labor . More complex setups, such as multi-circuit integration or relocation of existing wiring, can increase labor costs.
