

Price of sealing foam machine for distribution box

Article Overview

Sealing foam machines for distribution boxes typically range from $5,000 to $50,000 depending on automation, precision, and material compatibility.

Overview

Sealing foam machines, also known as PU foam gasket dispensers or FIPFG (Formed-In-Place Foam Gasket) machines, are used to apply polyurethane or silicone foam gaskets directly onto distribution boxes, electrical cabinets, and other enclosures . These machines replace manual sealing methods, providing seamless, durable, and precise gaskets that protect electronics from moisture, dust, and environmental damage .

Price Factors

- Automation Level:
 - Semi-automatic machines: Require some manual operation; generally cost $5,000–$15,000.
 - Fully automatic CNC-controlled machines: Offer high precision, multi-axis dispensing, and integration with production lines; prices can reach $20,000–$50,000 or more .
- Material Compatibility: Machines capable of handling multi-component PU, silicone, or epoxy resins with varying viscosities are more expensive due to advanced mixing and dosing systems
